

REEF DONKEY

Style: American Pale Ale

ABV: 5.5%

IBU: 36

Dry-hopped American Pale Ale with a lemon/lime aroma and citrus/slight tropical fruit flavor with a nice dry finish. Although this brew fits the classification of an APA, it drinks like a session IPA perfect for a day on the boat fishing the reef. Reef Donkey is slang for the popular Florida game fish Amberjack which inhabit our coastal wrecks and reefs.

TBBC Head Brewer, David Doble, loves his canned beer due to its symbiotic relationship with the Florida Lifestyle. When Dave isn't slugging away in the Brewery, he's usually found scuba diving, fishing, spearfishing, or just chillin on the water. So, Dave set out to make a sessionable beer that would be perfect for a day on the boat killing fish, relaxing, or both! Reef Donkey APA was born...Hoppy as an IPA with the alcohol of a Pale Ale. The name Reef Donkey came about after hanging out at a favorite local haunt. Dave was thinking out loud about the beer, again, and threw around a few names when a well known local boat captain, Christian, turned around and blurted out "Reef Donkey!" The rest is history in the making... Find your Reef!
